IN MEMORIAM

A helenium has been launched to raise money for the Red Cross Movement, in memory of the ITN news reporter Terry Lloyd, who was killed reporting from Iraq in March 2003. Called 'Chelsey' the plant was originally named after the plant breeder's granddaughter. However, Terry's daughter, also called Chelsey, has now adopted the plant to help raise money in Terry's name. For every plant sold, 50p will be donated to the Red Cross Movement. Look out for plants in garden centres from April. For details, visit www.plantspotters.com.
